Fixed in version 11.7.1

Fixed in version 11.7

When sharing a file with annotations, if the "Add Title" (Subject) field was empty, the recipient received an email message with a 'null' subject. (WSCLIENT-1033)

When you tried to send a copy of a file from the Workspaces viewer, the "Add Title" (Subject) field was missing. (WSCLIENT-1031)

In the Japanese version of the app, the "Download protected & print" file permission option was translated incorrectly. (WSCLIENT-1023)

If you configured a custom folder to synchronize with Workspaces, sometimes it did not synchronize properly. (WSCLIENT-1001)

When sharing a file, if there was an invalid email address in the recipients field, the Share button was not disabled properly. (WSCLIENT-690)

If you downloaded a protected file and attempted to share it, but you didn't have the appropriate permissions to do so, the "Make sure you have network connection, or contact your administrator for help" error message displayed incorrectly. (WSCLIENT-191)

Fixed in version 11.5

When sharing a file, email addresses that contained underscores did not appear correctly in the autocomplete list. (WSCLIENT-812)

When syncing a large file (for example, a file larger than 10 GB), the upload did not resume properly if a 503 error interrupted the synchronization. (WSCLIENT-768)

The CPU usage on the computer increases significantly when you open a Microsoft Office document. For more information, visit support.blackberry.com and read article 95238. (WSCLIENT-1057)

When you edit a Microsoft Office document and use the "Save to Workspaces" option, if the destination folder is connected externally to Workspaces, the "An error occurred. if problem persists, please contact support" error message displays. (WSCLIENT-1035)

When you try to send a report from the Report an issue screen, the Generate logs dialog appears but logs aren't successfully sent to an administrator. (WSCLIENT-998)
